SPEAKERS

Capt. Alexander Soukhanov

Alex is a Master Mariner and commissioned state maritime pilot, and is USMRC's Principal for maritime risk research and development programs. He is also the founder and Director of USMRC's Maritime Cyber Assurance ResearchSM program, an industry-centric "for maritime-by maritime" research effort focused on understanding the vulnerabilities to computer-based critical marine systems and industrial control systems (ICS) onboard ships and in marine terminals. He also co-leads a technical team of senior mariners and cyber operations professionals, known as the Maritime Cyber Assurance Team (MCAT), in shipboard and marine terminal cyber assessments, security requirement development and risk mitigation, and training. Alex is a Captain in the U.S. Navy Reserve. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Marine Transportation from the Massachusetts Maritime Academy, and is a graduate student at the U.S. Naval War College. Alex also serves as the Co-Chair of the State Department Overseas Security Advisory Council (OSAC) Maritime Security Working Group.

Bella Dinh-Zarr

National Transportation Safety Board Member Bella Dinh-Zarr trained as a public health scientist, specializing in injury prevention, and has dedicated her career to working to ensure that transportation safety is a policy priority, domestically and internationally. She previously served as the U.S. Director and Road Safety Director of the FIA Foundation, an international philanthropy with the mission of promoting safe and sustainable surface transportation. In that role, she was active in promoting the United Nations Decade of Action for Road Safety and in advocating for transportation safety and injury prevention targets in the UN Sustainable Development Goals. Dr. Dinh-Zarr is proud to have helped initiate collaborative projects to improve road safety, especially for vulnerable populations such as children and pedestrians, in developing countries in the regions of Southeast Asia, sub-Saharan Africa, and Latin America.

Previously, Dr. Dinh-Zarr has held positions at the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (U.S. Guide to Community Preventive Services), the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, the American Automobile Association, and the Texas Transportation Institute. She was a Presidential Appointee to the White House Conference on Aging in 2005 and has championed dignified and safe mobility for older populations through community-based services and technological solutions.

Born in Vietnam, Dr. Dinh-Zarr is the first Asian American Board Member and Vice Chairman of the NTSB. She is a graduate of Rice University in Houston, Texas, during which time she studied at La Universidad Católica de Valparaíso in Chile. She has Master of Public Health (MPH) and PhD degrees from the University of Texas School of Public Health. During graduate school, she completed a fellowship program on alcohol-related injuries with the Cochrane Collaboration and University College London and conducted one of the first systematic reviews on injury prevention in the United States and the first systematic review on seat belt laws and enforcement. Dr. Dinh-Zarr has served as the Chair of the Injury Control and Emergency Health Services for the American Public Health Association, the UN NGO Committee on Sustainable Development, and the Transportation Research Board's Global Road Safety Subcommittee.

SPEAKERS CONT'D

Capt. Michael J. Kucharski, Esq.

Mike Kucharski is a senior marine accident investigator. He came to the National Transportation Safety Board in late 2014. Since joining, he has investigated deep sea, brown water, commercial fishing, and dive vessel accidents.

Immediately prior to joining the NTSB Mike was the Managing Director of Orion Maritime Consultants, LLC. Captain Mike also served as Port Captain / Marine Manager for the Celebrity, Azamara, and TUI cruise vessel fleets, where he focused his operational and legal expertise to ensure company vessels were properly staffed, equipped, and compliant with regulatory and company standards.

In addition to his 23 years' seagoing experience aboard freighters and tankers (11 as master) in all deck officer positions on some of the world's more challenging waters, Mike enjoyed a collateral 30-year career in the U.S. Naval Reserves. As a Reservist, he utilized the skills obtained through his merchant service to act as an advisor or instructor at numerous deep draft and shoreside commands. He has also served as counsel, consultant, and expert witness to vessel and shipyard owners, underwriters, clubs, syndicates, construction companies, and transportation entities.

Mike Kucharski holds his Juris Doctor from Regent University School of Law and his Bachelor of Science, Marine Transportation, from S.U.N.Y Maritime College. He is currently licensed to sail as master of vessels of unlimited tonnage, upon oceans; and to practice law in the Commonwealth of Virginia.
